Science holds the lightning in her hand. What was once the terror of millions is now the ministering may do of other millions. What killed, now cares. Effectricity, as a grand curative and restorative agent, is not equalled by any other element or medicine la the history of the healing art. Unless the vital apark has fled the body, restoration by means of electricity is possible. It is the hast resort of all physicians and surgeons in suspended animation, and has succeeded in restoring muscuhar action and life whom the breath had apparently left the body. The value of this great element in the treatment of such diseases as likeumatism. Paralysis, St. Vitas' Dance, Inflammation of the Kidneys, etc., remains unquestioned by the highest medical authorities. But how apply it to any part of the body continuously, conveniently, and economically? The invention of Collins' Voltaic Plaster meets this great popular want, and furnishes electricity to millions of unhappy invalids in sperfect a manner as to challenge the admiration of the medical faculty.
